Summary:

I am a full-stack software engineer with a passion for custom, responsive styling & back-end application management. With 6 years of experience in team & project management for multiple non-profit organizations, I have learned what it takes to be successful when resources are low, time is of the essence, and fully functioning technology is essential. Whether you need a front-end designer or a full-stack developer, I have the capabilities to help you achieve your goals.
